December 2nd -- Rev. FRANKLIN HOBBS & GERRY SCOPPETTUOLO

"World AIDS Day: State of Emergency for People of Color"

Healing Our Land successfully lobbied for the passage of an HIV State of Emergency in the City of Boston in 2005 with the help of a community coalition led by faith leaders from the Black Community. However, much still needs to be done to assure that the resources appropriated every year make a real difference to the communities devastated by this preventable disease.

Minister Franklin Hobbs is the director of Healing Our Land and a longtime activist and initiator of HIV State of Emergency Declaration. Gerry Scoppettuolo is a member of ACT-UP Boston and the Peoples Power Assembly.

December 9th -- LOIE HAYES

"Climate Solutions, Here and Now"

Loie Hayes is a coordinator with Boston Climate Action Network. She has been organizing on climate issues since 2005, and has led energy conservation workshops and other local climate events in Mission Hill, Jamaica Plain, Dorchester. Before becoming BostonCAN's coordinator, Loie worked in book and newspaper publishing for 20 years and continues to work as a freelance editor and writer.

December 16th -- THEATER OF RELATIVITY

"Snowman", A Play by John O'Brien

The Joker and the Scholar recall a winter afternoon long ago, when a traumatic event split them into two sides of the same coin in John O'Brien's darkly funny "Snowman".

John O'Brien was our beloved long time Community Church member, head usher and husband to our senior member Gwen O'Brien. He was also a prolific actor and playwright. Many of these plays were produced here over the years of John's membership.

December 23rd -- LINDA JENKINS & GUESTS

"Reflections on the Season: Spiritual Roots or Social Justice"

This season has been rich in mystery for millenia, giving rise to stories and rituals from many faith traditions. Those faith traditions embrace teachings of justice and solidarity. Today we reflect on and celebrate the mystery that underpins our commitment to social justice work and those of our ancestors.

Linda Jenkins is the Congregational Director at the Community Church of Boston.

December 30th -- COMMUNITY DISCUSSION

"A Better World is Possible: What Will it Look Like?"

Tragically, all of us have experienced, witnessed, and learned about many forms of injustice. But we have the capacity to dream. We can envision a tomorrow filled with justice and peace. We need these visions of a better world to guide our actions and fill us up with hope. What would a better world look like to you? What would remain from the world we live in today, and what would be different? We are each coming with different experiences and perspectives, and through sharing will be able to build stronger bonds with one another!

Accompaniment: Feet of Faith (Part II)

by Linda Jenkins, Congregational Director

In last month's Newsletter, I described how I experience the Community Church of Boston as a place where faith is expressed by people using their feet, to show up in solidarity against suffering and injustice and for peace, sustainability and justice.

This month, as promised, I explore and report how our faithful feet are carrying us and the places they might take us.

A week ago a Church member asked me if we have a Social Justice Action Committee. I was grateful for his question, since this has been on my mind. A month ago after talking with a Board member and I talked about how to approach mobilizing for collective action, she took the initiative to create a survey, distribute it during a Sunday service and count up the results. The survey asked what issues people are interested in, what kinds of activities we'd like to engage in and what other organizations we'd like to collaborate with. Perhaps inevitably, I realize, after reviewing the results, that we overlooked some things, but perhaps that makes it an even better subject for discussion.

So here are the results:

Summary of Desired Involvements

Phone Tree: Yes - 5 / No - 4
Marches, Demonstrations: Yes - 10 / No - 1
Street Theater: Yes - 4 / No - 3
Mike Checking: Yes - 5 / No - 1
Bird Dogging: Yes - 1 / No - 3
Strategic Action Meetings: Yes - 5 / No - 2 / Maybe - 1
Media Consultant: Yes - 1 / No - 3
Planning Design (Banner/Tee Shirt): Yes - 6 / No - 1

Issue Priority

Antiwar - 8; AntiGMO - 9; Healthcare - 7; Prisons - 6; Poverty - 8; Palestine - 9; Housing - 6; Homelessness -

6; Global Warming - 7; Sexism - 7; Racism - 7; Immigration - 7; Strike Debt - 3; Banks - 6

Organizations for CCB to work with

Occupy Boston - 9 Veterans for Peace - 8 Local Colleges - 6

Women's International League for Peace & Freedom - 7

Twelve step programs operate on a wise principle: growth by attraction rather than promotion. If 'right' actions are being taken, people will be attracted and will want to participate. This, I believe, is true for CCB. If we join our energies and collectively put our feet together for causes we embrace, we will be joined by others. For myself, personally, and as a member both of CCB and Occupy Boston, I recognize that today all causes in need of action are related to each other. I have personal preferences but my biggest priority is to join my feet and my energy with others, in whatever the particular group decides is next; the next right action. So I believe that we at CCB have the opportunity to decide together, and somewhat selflessly be willing to let go of our personal preferences, to see where we might be led, as a group, to put our feet nest.

This, I believe, is key to our well-being as a community, to our current membership and to our growth: being faithful together with our feet. Whether we have a separate Social Justice Action Committee or mobilize our Growth and Membership Committee, let's explore to how we are faithful with our feet together. We can begin the discussion at a gathering of the Growth and Membership Committee, scheduled to meet on Wednesday, January 15th, 7pm at CCB. Will you show up?

CCB Board Meeting

The Board of Directors met on November 13, 2012 Following are highlights of the meeting.

Congregational Director's Report: The Committee on Ministry met recently and announced that Nancy Messom, its chairperson, was resigning her position. The board stated its appreciation for her excellent work of several years on behalf of the Church. Mary Ann Cromer and John Mannheim are the two remaining members of the Committee.

Financial Matters: The treasurer reviewed the Profit and Loss Budget Performance, October 2012. She concentrated on Rental Income, Expenses (some of which are running high), CCB Programming (costs are higher than expected). She pointed out that income was ahead of expenses by $14,000.

Building Committee: There was a conference call meeting where many topics were discussed, including tenant relations and other building related issues.

Various Concerns: The board voted to give eight $25 money orders to CCB prison members for postage expenses.

The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom has made a one-time request of the board will allow Safety Net to use CCB's 501(c)3 status in order to fund a holiday party for children in the Roxbury area.

The next scheduled meeting of the board is December 11, 2012 at 7:15pm. Members and friends of the Church are invited to attend.

Celebrate New Years Eve with the Community Church of Boston!

Monday, December 31st, 8pm in the Lothrop Auditorium

Gather together to enjoy music, snacks, friendship and fireworks while welcoming in the New Year!

Our Amazing Story

The Community Church has a rich store of archival materials that reveal our marvelous and noble 93 years of existence.

The archives are presently housed in a disorderly unceremonious fashion in a cluttered storeroom. They were put there when we moved from one office to another. They reveal amazing things every time I visit them

I found a binder with complete records of all of CCB's speakers, from 1921 to 1960. It also contains attendance records, collection amounts, and honorariums paid to speakers. The largest attendance I found was in 1932, when 2600 people came to Symphony Hall to hear Norman Thomas speak. There were other pleasant surprises I never had known about: Thurgood Marshall, William Douglas, Hubert Humphrey, Margaret Sanger, and I.F. Stone, are just a few of the notable names to be found there. Henry Wallace was a frequent speaker during the early 50's. Robert Frost spoke once, in 1936. WEB DuBois spoke numerous times over the course of 40 years, and always drew a huge crowd. Other very popular speakers: Norman Thomas, Roger Baldwin, and Scott Nearing, who also taught evening courses at Community Church, on a range of topics. Henry Wallace spoke several times during the early 50's. And of course Rev. Martin Luther King, in 1957, when he was only a Rev., much less a Dr., then a martyr.

It's a beautiful history, there for us to find. There for us to take inspiration and guidance for our future.

This binder will be digitized and uploaded onto our website. We hope that it's only the beginning of a serious inquiry into our past. It should also spark a discussion about the future of our archives. Should they stay here? Would they be better cared for by one of the university libraries, who have the funding and expertise to care properly for them? There is treasure there, and I feel that in my occasional wanderings into that room, I'm only seeing the tip of the iceberg. There is so much more I'd love to know, about our awesome church!!

Occupy Sandy and Mutual Aid

by David S. Meyer (politicsoutdoors.com)

Piotr Kropotkin was an anarchist because he believed that absent government, people would help each other. Born a Russian noble, Kropotkin renounced his title and spent his life as an activist and theorist, and proclaimed his allegiance to poor. He saw government, which extracted wealth

The solution was in the people. Everywhere Kropotkin looked, in Siberia where he worked as a scientist and and started wars, as the problem.

bureaucrat, and in the animal kingdom, he saw Mutual Aid. Absent government coercion, people helped each other, building sustainable and humane societies.

For one strain of anarchists, the work to be done was not only to resist government, but also to build alternative networks for addressing social problems.

Occupy activists in New York have worked to rise to the challenges of Superstorm Sandy. Occupy Sandy is an effort at mutual aid, directed explicitly to the people most affected by the storm. Occupiers have collected and distributed relief, including food. And for Thanksgiving, Occupy Sandy organized meals in affected neighborhoods in New York City. Occupy Wall Street has forged an alliance with the environmental group, 350.org, to organize for action on climate change while providing relief.

Maintaining a presence in Zuccotti Park is simple compared to building the infrastructure needed to take on a large relief effort. Occupiers have been raising money and building the expertise needed to make these efforts work, organizing meals, entertainment, and fundraising efforts.

In the large wake of Sandy, all of these efforts are welcome, necessary, and possible. Over a longer haul, it's hard to see any of this working as an ongoing volunteer effort. People have jobs outside the relief effort. Those who stay inside the relief effort will specialize, develop relationships with funders (likely including government at all levels), and find routines to do their jobs more effectively. It's hard to balance advocacy and service.
